Here I am again, putting my heart on this page in hopes that the words written here will impact your life & encourage you on to greatness. For the past few days, I've been meditating on the word Love. So often we hear that word & we think about feelings or emotions of love. But real love is an action not a feeling. You demonstrate your love for someone by your actions towards them. Your words may reflect great intentions but your actions deliver what's in your heart.

As I've reflected on my life & what has made the difference for me, the answer is LOVE. My whole life I've been encouraged, believed in, prayed for, sheltered, protected, sacrificed for, comforted, lifted up, given to, edified & disciplined. I have been surrounded, enveloped, covered in LOVE. Everything I am, every goal achieved, every dream fulfilled, every life touched is a result of how I've been loved in my life. When you've been loved the way I've been loved, you want everybody to know how that feels. I thank God for loving me in spite of me. I thank Him for the people in my life who do the same.

I saw "The Blindside" right before Christmas & this is what I got from the movie, "Love always makes the difference." We express love to others by the way we treat them, the things we do for them. GOD so LOVED the WORLD He GAVE. He showed His Love through His actions towards us. We should be loving others with our actions. We were created by Love to love. Our first & most important responsibility is to love. One act of real love creates a ripple effect from one life into the next. We have to remember, we serve a God of multiplication. As you pour love into each other, He multiplies it into the lives of others & then it explodes exponentially into yours. Love is what saved this world. The best thing we can do for those around us is love them with our words, our time & most of all, our actions.

So remember, Love is a verb. Someone who loves you shows you not only through their words but through their actions. Real love gives, serves, sacrifices, encourages, uplifts, empowers. So the question isn't who's loving you, but who are you loving? You've been commissioned; now make it your mission to LOVE.

“A new commandment I give to you, that you love one another; as I have loved you, that you also love one another.” John 13:34

Be blessed. Stay SASSY!

Hello Ladies,

I hope that you are all suited up and fighting the good fight. By now many of you have gotten your tax refunds. Hopefully that money has been either saved or put to good use. Keep in mind your financial challenge. Let's make 2010 the year of financial success. Whether it's paying off that credit card, those old hospital bills or even paying extra on your car payment to knock down some of the interest, we all can find ways of tackling our financial challenges. I have talked to many ladies who are on this journey to financial success with me. Some have admitted to finally being able to pay their bills on time while others have admitted to being able to at least have $50 to $100 left out of their paycheck. Finances are an area that many people struggle in. There are unexpected things that do and will happen. That is why this challenge of having 3 months worth of living expenses saved is so important. If you have experienced the unexpected flat tire or the increase in rent, no need to worry. Pay what is due and move forward. Every day is a new day to do better and be better. We are speaking big things in 2010. -Pam

The Five Love Languages
By Gary Chapman

In The Five Love Languages, Dr. Gary Chapman talks about how different people express love in different ways. Some people are verbal, expressing their love in words. Others may never speak their affection, yet they show it by the things they do. Sadly, many couples look to receive love the same way they give it, misunderstanding their spouses. This can lead to quarrels, hurt feelings, and even divorce. However, if you understand each other's love languages, you can learn to give and receive love more effectively.~
