

I'll go

Well ladies, it's time to run. The message has to get out. And if not us, who and if not now, when? Recently, a young lady asked me what types of groups was I willing to share with and where was I willing to go.

Here is my answer, "Wherever there are women who need hope, I will go. Wherever a woman needs to know there is someone else who has been where she is and overcame, I will go. Wherever there is a woman who needs to know that God loves her because she feels like no one does, I will go. Wherever there are girls who need to know they are worth waiting for, I will go. Wherever there are broken women who need to know another woman cares and will have her back, I will go. Wherever there is a woman who thinks that her life doesn't matter and just needs someone to tell her that she is special, I will go. Wherever there are girls who need to know that they are not defined by the way they look but by the God who made them, I will go. Wherever there are women who just need to know they are going to make it no matter what the circumstances look like. I will go."

"There are women out there who need help today. Right now. Everything around them is dead and they are dying inside. So Lord, send me. I'll go."

So if you know of any organizations, women's groups, clubs etc that would benefit from the SASSY message, I pray that you would give them my email or phone number, (864) 344-1917. Don't wait any longer. Because if we wait, we are going to lose some of them forever. Be in prayer for our women.. They are trying so hard to hold it all together. Let's go get them.
